

The Post-Standard

Teacher wins a $10,000 classroom makeover

By Michele Reaves
May 12, 2007

Lynn Cecero, a teacher at Karl W. Saile Bear Road Elementary School, won a $10,000 classroom makeover from Honeywell International and the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children.

Cecero was one of five grand prize winners in the second Got 2B Safe! Awards Program.

Honeywell International makes aerospace products and services, control technologies for buildings, homes and industry and a host of other technology.

The National Center for Missing & Exploited Children is a nonprofit organization that has helped law enforcement agencies find more than 110,200 children.

The two created the Got 2B Safe! Program in 2003 to arm teachers, parents and children with child-safety skills.

Teachers submitted a lesson plan or essay demonstrating how they taught the Got 2B Safe! Four Rules.

Cecero created writing assignments and had pupils make presentations about the safety rules during schoolwide morning assemblies.